An International Exposition Proposed to be Held at Montreal in 1896.

Kingston, Nov. 21.—For the third time the petitioner against Dr. Smythe as M. P. P. has withdrawn his name from the protest. The first was Robert McConnell, the second Archibald Waldie and the third Thomas Keyes. The latter announced his intention this morning. The Liberals are looking for another person to place his signature to the petition.

London, Ont., Nov. 21.—Dean Hole, of Rochester cathedral, England, in an interview expressed himself in favor of Sunday cars. "I should like," he said, "to see a Sunday car service in your city, which would make God's gifts of sunlight and fresh air free to the poor as well as to the rich."

A cablegram from Cocanada says: Rev. G. H. Barrow, Baptist missionary to Maasapatuan, died on Sunday of fever. When last heard from he was in good health. He had fully acquired the language and was doing excellent work among the Telugus.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—On resuming the boodle investigation this morning, Nesbitt city counsel, said ex-Alderman Stewart would be given a chance to defend himself. All the aldermen accused, he said, would be given a chance to defend themselves. Judge Macdougall concurred. Guelph, of Detroit, was present in connection with the asphalt boodle. He will give evidence showing how the ring treated him. This case was the first taken up, and the entire details of the contract were first dealt with.

Montreal, Nov. 21.—Joseph H. Stiles, who was Britain's commissioner to the world's fair and midwinter fair at San Francisco, wishes to organize an international exposition for Montreal in 1896. He says he has entered into an agreement with the Montreal exhibition company for their grounds. The exhibition will begin May 24th, last until October 31st, 1896, and all parts of the world will be asked to participate.

Sarnia, Ont., Nov. 21.—This morning the bricklayers who were working on George street went out on strike through the board of works committee putting a man on the gang that was a member of the P. P. A. The men went back to work after the committee had discharged the man.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—The police authorities are singularly reticent regarding the arrest of Clara Ford for the shooting of Frank Westwood, except admitting they are confident that they have the guilty party. The department, it is said, has a strong case of circumstantial evidence. The girl was arraigned this morning and remanded for a week. Clara, besides having a penchant for men's clothing, looks much like a man in features. She shaves and smokes a pipe.

Stratford, Nov. 21.—Malcolm Macfarlane was in St. Hyacinthe recently interviewing Eusebe Chatelle, half brother of the murderer of the little Keith girl at Listowel. Chatelle said he had received several letters from Toronto making inquiries about his brother's sanity and offering to defend him on that plea. He thought his brother was perfectly sane and asked Mr. Macfarlane's opinion as to the advisability of defending him. After giving Mr. Chatelle minute details of the evidence against the prisoner, Mr. Macfarlane said he did not think it would be advisable.

THE VICTORIOUS JAPANESE.

They Continue the Chase of the Chinese—Confirmation of Former Victories.

An Outpost Captured at Port Arthur—Closing in on That Stronghold.

London, Nov. 21.—A dispatch from Chee Foo reports that the Japanese have captured a fort two miles west of Port Arthur. The Chinese have taken refuge upon the highest hill in the vicinity, and it is reported that they are short of provisions. The Japanese are advancing down the peninsula safely. American missionaries at Tung Chow are threatened and the cruiser Baltimore has gone to their assistance.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The Japanese legation received to-day, via St. Petersburg, official confirmation of the victory by the Japanese army under Marshal Yamagata over the Chinese army under General Ma at Sin Yuen. The Chinese numbered twenty thousand, and after three hours' fighting on the 18th they fled north.

The government of Japan, replying to the United States offer to mediate between China and Japan, expressed high appreciation of the kindly feeling of the United States, but says it believes the first overtures for peace should come from China.

FRANCH EXECUTED.

The Barcelona Anarchist Put to Death this Morning.

Barcelona, Nov. 21.—Salvador Franch, the chief conspirator in the bomb throwing plot which resulted in the death of thirty persons and the wounding of eigthy others in the Lyceum theatre this city a little more than a year ago, was executed this morning. The prisoner through the last day and night of his life showed no fear. He ate with good appetite. Last evening his wife and daughter called at the prison to endeavor to induce him to confess and accept the consolations of religion. He paid no heed to their appeals. The crowd which had collected about the prison in hopes of seeing the execution were disappointed by the military. Franch cried "Long Live Anarchy" as he was being led to the place of execution. He scoffed at religion to the last. A few minutes before he was put to death he began singing, and continued his song until he was no longer able to utter a sound.

The body of Franch was exposed in its place in the death chair until sundown and great crowds of people gazed upon the distorted features of the dead man.

The Emerald Smugglers Said to Have Peached Upon Others.

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—It is alleged that Luke Greenwald and Wichman, two of the convicted members of the Emerald gang of smugglers, have made confessions implicating a well known lawyer and several others in the smuggling operations. Voss, the fugitive, who is now keeping a restaurant in Victoria, B. C., has, it is alleged, written to a friend in this city that if the government will promise not to prosecute him he will produce important documentary and other evidence against the ring.

FLIGHT OF THE CHINESE

The Japanese Army in Manchuria Meets With no Resistance —Japan's Policy.

Chinese Emperor Seeks to Protect Foreigners in Japan—Late War News.

Yokohama, Nov. 9.—(Per steamship Empress of China to the Associated Press.)—The Japanese army in Manchuria continues its march of invasion with scarcely a show of opposition on the part of the Chinese. Chiu Lien having been taken on October 26 th, the advance was resumed on the following day toward Hongwong (sometimes written Fenghwang), about thirty-five miles distant on the rod to Moukden. This city, again, was entered on October 31st, and, as usual, without the necessity of heavy fighting. The garrison fled in disorder, the majority shaping their course for Moukden, a considerable number following the road to Hai Chien and Newchwang, and a few turning southward toward Taikosan, at which place they may have landed from transports quite recently. It is stated that before running away the Chinese generals ordered that Hongwong be burned, but their arrangements were not sufficiently effective to insure the destruction of the twenty thousand houses which the place contains. General Yamagata's reports say nothing on this subject, but with regard to the seizures of arms and ammunition he is explicit. Since the opening of the Manchuria campaign he has taken fifty-five field cannon with twenty thousand rounds and fifteen hundred rifles with two million five hundre d thousand rounds. The total number of field pieces lost by the Chinese between the end of July and the end of October is one hundred and five.

General Yamagata has lost no time in announcing to the inhabitants of the newly occupied territory that they have nothing to fear from the Japanese if they pursue their occupations peacefullly and abstain from interference with the movements of the soldiers. Notifications to this effect have been displayed all along the line of march, and appear to have been accepted with confidence and satisfaction. Most of those who forsook their homes in apprehension of harsh treatment returned as soon as they learned that no harm would befall them, and many have sought employment from officers of the army. Deeming it advisable to secure the good will of the populace Yamagata has remitted all taxes for the remainder of the year and has established a temporary form of civil government under the control of a secretary from the legation at Seoul, who is to hear all complaints and consider them justly. The effect of all this upon the populace is to call forth assurances of general and apparently unfeigned gratitude. The peasantry are especially outspoken in contrasting the treatment they received from the new comers with that which they were compelled to endure from their predecessors. Many of them have volunteered to point out the places where large quantities of war material and provisions are hidden away. The food supply left by the Chinese is said to be enormous.

No information is officially announced as to the direction in which General Yamagata will next march. Flying columns have been sent in pursuit of the scattered hosts on the two roads leading to the old Manchurian capital and the head of the Laiu Tung peninsula, but if the main body has set out its course is kept secret.

The censorship over the Japanese newspapers has been much relaxed, and extras are issued every day declaring that Gen. Oyama's army has landed safely, and fixing upon various different places as the spot of debarkation. The capture of Port Arthur and other strongholds at the northern entrance of the Gulf of Pichili is constantly proclaimed, but the government will say nothing to confirm or to deny these statements. Telegrams from Shanghai will carry to America and Europe the first news of events in which Oyama and his followers are concerned.

Fear is teaching the Chinese emperor a lesson which he has hitherto stubbornly refused to learn. For the first time he condescends to notice personally the outrages committed by his subjects upon alien residents in his domains. An edict was issued October 24th and posted in the streets of Pekin, announcing that his majesty exercises the same authoritative benevolence over the foreign countries of the west as that which he applies to his own. Only the Wojen (Japanese vermin) are excluded from his protection, and this is because they have disturbed the public peace and encouraged the disorderly classes in China to molest strangers, and particularly missionaries. To counteract their evil influence, the emperor now warns his people that if any of them be remiss in their behavior toward Europeans and Americans, "their conduct will be investigated and every one of them without fail reported to his superior and severely dealt with. Let every one tremblingly obey and not oppose. A special decree."

Another proclamation from the throne makes it evident that the emperor still regards the naval battle off Taikosan as a success. The fiction that three Japanese ships were sunk is sturdily repeated, and in the distribution of rewards to the various officers concerned great stress is laid upon their services in breaking up the Japanese plan of landing an army, and insuring the safe debarkation of the Chinese troops near the Yalu river. Buttons, peacock feathers and stars are plentifully bestowed upon von Hanneken and others, and to the families of foreigners who were killed two years' pay has been granted, together with posthumous honors.

The insufficient supply of grain in the northern Chinese provinces excites increasing alarm. The usual winter supply from the south is cut off by the Japanese ships, and the grand canal through the centre of the empire is impassable. Famine now threatens to add a new terror to the desperate situation in which the court is placed.

Reports to the effect that the imperial family is preparing to fly from Pekin are received almost daily. Several cities are designated as the proposed place of refuge, Hankow, in the south, and Changbeakow, in the north, being the most frequently specified. Possibly the stories are suggested merely by the remembrance that the court escaped to Jehol at the time when the capital was captured by the English and French thirty-five years ago. At this moment it does not appear that anything could be gained by the emperor's hurried withdrawal from his present quarters, and the rumors will need confirmation before receiving general credit.

Preparations for closing the port of Ningpo to trade are in progress.

Count Inouye arrived in Seoul on October 26th, and at once assumed control of the Japanese legation. His presence is much needed. The government is rapidly falling into disorder, and a strong hand alone can compel it to fulfil the pledges given three months ago. Assassination has again been resorted to in the capital. The vice-minister of justice—a strong partisan of Japan—was murdered October 31st, and great uneasiness is felt by his political associates in office.

Captain Goodrich, of the United States ship Concord, has been received in audience by the king of Corea.

Much attention is given by the Japanese press to the subject of a foreign loan, and the question as to its expediency is earnestly debated in financial circles. The government is at present strongly opposed to the idea of borrowing from abroad, and its policy of independence is supported by the leading newspapers and by the most important fiscal institution in the empire—namely, the Bank of Japan. The manufacturing class also believes in relying upon domestic sources for the requisite supplies. The chambers of commerce, on the other hand, are throughout the country in favor of accepting external aid. They argue that any further withdrawal of large sums from circulation will result in serious derangement of business and great suffering in many quarters. Count Okuma, who is regarded as the keenest witted of Japanese financiers, and whose management of the treasury during the perilous years which followed the restoration freed the nation from monetary embarrassments and thoroughly established its credit, is uncompromising in his advocacy of an American or European loan. But he is no longer in the government and has no power to enforce his opinions. The popular voice is loud in asserting the ability of the country to sustain all burdens that the war may impose upon it, and in denouncing every suggestion to the contrary as timorous and unpatriotic. But at least the question is discussed, and even this was impossible a month ago.

The Japanese public receives with grim skepticism the semi-authoritative statement sent out from England to account for Admiral Freemantle's display of search lights on the occasion of a Japanese advance upon Weihaiwei. The alleged explanation is that the admiral's purpose was to reveal the nationality of his ships and prevent an attack upon them by mistake. But the original answer to the charge of giving warning to the Chinese defenders was an emphatic denial that any search lights were used, coupled with an assertion that it was already daylight when the approach of the Japanese fleet was discovered, so that it mattered nothing whether lights were shown or not. The general belief that Admiral Freemantle has acted all along as a partisan of China is not much shaken by this latest effort to shield him.

The Corean prince has started for home after enjoying a round of entertainments offered him by various government officials. While in Tokio he naively attempted a few diplomatic coquetries with some of the foreign ministers, apparently unconscious that the game might prove dangerous if carried too far. His inexperience led him occasionally to overstep the boundaries of etiquette, but these indiscretions were leniently overlooked, and his harmless byplay of international intrigue was permitted to proceed without interruption. The circumstances in which his country is placed are considered as entitling him to a good deal of indulgence.

The German government has offered, through its minister in Tokio, the use of its hospital in Yokohama during the war.

It is now decided that the bonds of the war loan shall be of five denominations—five thousand, one thousand, five hundred, one hundred, and fifty yen. The last named are for the benefit of small investors.

Facilities of communicating with their families and friends have been offered to all the Chinese prisoners of war confined in Japan.

Count Kamei, an accomplished amateur artist, accompanied by twently photographic operators, has set out to join the army of General Oyama, with the purpose of obtaining material for illustration of the Japanese movements in the Liautung region.

Mr. F. F. Crocker, president of the Oriental and Occidental steamship company, accompanied by Mr. D. O. Mills, has just concluded a short visit to Japan, during which they were hospitably entertained by Mr. Iwasaki Yanosuke, the pioneer of great Japanese steamship enterprises, and Mr. Yoshikawa, the president of the Nippon Yusen line, which communicates with all parts of the Asiatic coast, from Liberia to India. The travellers are now on their way to Hong Kong.

The official report of the great earthquake of October 22nd, in the north of Japan, shows that two thousand one hundred and fifty-five houses were overthrown, two thousand and six houses were burned, four hundred and eighty-two persons killed and six hundred and sixty-one injured. The loss of property is estimated at over ten million yen.

To swear or not to swear—that is the question
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to grin and bear
With a box of spluttering matches,
Or to take arms against th' imposing grocer
And with a shot-gun end him? To shoot—to kill—
No more; or with a club to say we make
His back ache, increasing by one the shocks
His flesh is heir to—'tis an ending
Devoutly to be wished. To bluff—to palm—
To palm off worthless matches—ay, there's the rub.
For when we ask for Eddy's and are given others—
When we have shuffled off, and with mortal toil
Succeeded in producing a dull light by dint
Of trying half a box of vile odor'd lucifers,
We register a vow to never patronize
Th' unscrupulous man again—or else to see and to insist
On getting E. B. Eddy's Matches.

Ladies Costumes

Ladies have a great deal of trouble in selecting dress goods. The variety is great. The quality is various and the merit claimed is sometimes more than the possession. When ladies are desirous of obtaining the finest grade of Black Dress Goods, they should ask to see Priestley's dress fabrics. These, as is well known, are the ne plus ultra of durability, beauty and delicacy of texture. They have long been the favorite dress goods of well dressed Englishwomen. The Americans prefer them to French goods. Canadian ladies can obtain them from reliable dealers. Ladies should always ask for Priestley's Dress Goods.

IMPERIAL SLAVERY.

To the Editor:—A short time ago I wrote Mr. John Burns, the English labor leader, stating facts relating to the white slavery existing at Esquimalt fortifications, the cost of living and so on. I asked him to bring the matter up in the English house of commons. I have not yet received a reply. Col. Prior did likewise, besides bringing the matter up in the Dominion House, only to get snowed under. A few years ago I listened to thousands of voices in the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, singing "Britannia rules the waves; Britons never, never shall be slaves," which seemed to fill every soul with rapture. But we are slaves if we do not move in this matter. Mr. Editor, I would like to suggest that another citizens' mass meeting be held at the city hall to protest against—as another writer puts it—wages so low that a private individual would hesitate before offering them to a Chinaman, namely one dollar and a quarter per day of 9 1-2 hours. A telegram should be sent to Lord Rosebery, and the Earl of Aberdeen, pointing out that the municipal councils and provincial government pay not less than $2 per day for unskilled labor. If this does not meet with favor I would suggest that the workmen of Victoria sign a monster petition and forward it to Mr. John Burns, who has done so much to get higher wages and eight hours a day in the English dockyards. I feel sure that the majority of British taxpayers do not know about this business or they would stop it. W. G. EDEN.

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

AMERICAN POACHERS

Caught Fishing in Canadian Waters and their Nets Seized.

Sandusky, O., Nov. 20.—The Canadian cruiser Petrel is stationed near Kelly's island taking out nets. It is claimed by the American fishermen that the nets are in American waters, but they fear capture if they approach the cruiser. The collector of customs in this city has taken steps to have the United States ship Fessenden sent to the spot.

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 20.—The Canadian cruiser Petrel returned to-day to the fishing grounds, after unloading at Rondeau over one hundred American gill nets and ten tons of fish seized near Pelee island. The nets are owned in Sandusky and are valued at $400. The United States revenue cutter Fessenden is now at Port Huron, and customs officials here say that she has not been ordered to the Lake Erie fishing grounds to guard against the seizures in American waters reported from Sandusky.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—The secretary of the treasury has received a telegram from the commander of the revenue cutter Fessenden, at Detroit, stating that the masters of fishing tugs at Sandusky claim that the Canadian revenue cutter Petrel had molested them, cutting their twine, etc., while fishing in American waters. The matter will be referred to the state department.

THE ARMENIAN HORROR.

British Ambassador Causes Consternation in the Turkish Government.

Sultan Orders a Commission to Make an Enquiry Into the Massacre.

London, Nov. 20.—A dispatch to the Times from Vienna states that a letter has been received from Smyrna reporting that Zeki Pasha, the Turkish marshal, with a detachment of Anizams and a field battery, massacred two thousand Armenians at Sassum. The bodies of the dead were left unburied, and their presence has caused an outbreak of cholera. Many Christians are reported to have fled by secret paths across the Russian frontier. So far there has been no official confirmation of this news, but if it is true it is for the powers to share in the responsibility by their failure to enforce article 61 of the Berlin treaty, which imposes on them the duty of seeing that the Porte takes measures to protect the Armenians. The latter declare they hope for nothing from Europe, but they still have confidence in Great Britain. Numerous appeals have been made by the Armenians to the British foreign office.

A dispatch to the Daily News from Constantinople says the energetic action of Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador to Turkey, has caused consternation among the members of the Turkish government. Everything has been done to keep secret the fact of the outrages.

A letter to the Standard from Constantinople says that in response to the protest made by Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador to Turkey, the Porte has unreservedly withdrawn the charge against Mr. Hallwood, the British consul at Varna, of inciting the Armenians at Sassum and elsewhere to revolt. The charge grew out of the investigation made by Mr. Hallwood in the Armenian massacre and his report to the British ambassador. The governor of Bitlis, who is seriously involved in the outrage, made the charge, it is said, for the purpose of revenge. The sultan has decided to send a commission composed of three members of his military household and one civilian to Sassum for the purpose of making an impartial inquiry into the outrages on Armenians. The latest news is to the effect that many of the Armenians who were supposed to have been killed fled from the soldiery, and are now returning.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Men cried like children at a meeting of Armenians at Beyer's hall, Milwaukee and Chicago avenues, when the story of the atrocities of the Turks was retold. Some were there who may have lost sisters, brothers or parents in the recent slaughter. Pitiful appeals were set up for the Christian people of the world to take cognizance of the dreadful persecution of the Armenians. The speakers talked of taking up arms and of dying in the cause of liberty and vengeance. The meeting was called for the purpose of taking action in regard to the reported slaughter, and to discuss ways and means by which the sentiment of the civilized world can be aroused to prevent a repetition of such an outrage. Several hundred Armenians were present.

The meeting closed with the passage of resolutions thanking the press for the interest taken in the cause of the Armenians, and others appealing to the pulpit and all good men and women to lift up their voices in protest against further persecution of a Christian people.

HAD NO HOPE OF RECOVERY.

That Was the Doctor's Verdict, but the Patient is Again as Well as Ever.

The wonderful value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in all cases arising from poor or watery blood, or shattered nerves, is proved by the fact that they cure when other medicines fail, and in scores of cases restore the patient to health after doctors had said there was no hope of recovery. Such a case is that of Mrs. William Arnott, of Burnside Station, Man., who says: "I was very low and weak when I was advised to try your Pink Pills. My system was run down, my blood had turned to water, and the doctors who were attending me told me that there was not much hope of my recovery. As the doctors could do nothing for me I went to Winnipeg for three months. Not getting better I returned home, and was so weak I could hardly move about. I then got six boxes of your Pink Pills, and by the time I had taken four of them I was gaining rapidly. I continued the use of the pills, and am now a new person, feeling as well as I did 20 years ago. I have recommended Pink Pills to many others, and have seen beneficial results from their use in their cases. I cannot recommend them too strongly, and I trust that under God's guidance some other sufferer may find as much benefit as I have done." Thousands bear equally strong testimony to the great healing powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

MEXICO AND GUATAMALA.

Strong Feeling in Mexico in Favor of War.

San Cristobal de Las Caras, Mex., Nov. 20.—The greatest enthusiasm exists in this state in favor of war. The government have been asked to accept volunteers. Societies have been organized who will tender their services to the state and the federal government and expect to be sent to the front. A large number of Guatamalan spies are known to be on the frontier and near the military camp, but so far no attention has been paid to them, except to order them away.

Mazatlan, Mex., Nov. 20.—The steamship Jandrow is now ready to take on her new armament, and it is reported that she will immediately get ready to take 1,000 soldiers to the Guatamalan frontier from Acapulco.

City of Mexico, Mex., Nov. 20.—The national arms factory here is turning out cartridges as fast as possible. The greatest bustle is noticeable in the war department. This is giving rise to many rumors. It is said that Assistant Secretary of War Escudare is going to Vera Cruz within a few days to see about better transportation of troops to the Guatamalan frontier.

Vera Cruz, Nov. 20.—The Nineteenth infantry have embarked on gunboats to go to Basco. Two hundred and fifty thousand cartridges have been shipped south within the last few weeks. The Fourth infantry is expected here in a few days to go to Basco.

Comaltan, Mex., Nov. 20.—New troops have arrived and taken station covering the line. There is a strong feeling here in favor of war with Guatamala. The Chapana are all willing to shoulder muskets, and many of them have made offers to the government for arms for that purpose. People on the Guatamalan frontier are most bitter in their complaints against the Guatamalan government, which has lately relieved all the authorities which were from that section and has appointed people from the interior to fill their positions, and an uprising is imminent. An agent of the Guatamalan government is here trying to purchase horses for cavalry. The Tenth Mexican infantry covers the frontier and, besides, the new National Guard has its headquarters here.

At Newark, N. J., a fire engine collided with a trolley car this morning. A number of firemen were thrown to the ground and five are believed to be fatally injured, two others seriously.

A MOWAT VICTORY.

The Mowat government has won an important victory in the election of T. S. Hobbs in London. That city for many years returned Mr. Meredith to the legislature, his majorities varying, but being always substantial. Yesterday's result shows a change of opinion in the constituency—a change that must have been partly caused by loss of faith in the opposition cause, for the personality of the candidates alone would not have caused so marked a turnover. Mr. Essery is personally popular, as shown by his election to the mayoralty, his qualifications for membership of the legislature were not questioned, and he was supposed to have at his back the whole power of the P. P. A. It may be that this latter circumstance tended to his disadvantage, but if that was the case he and his leader, Mr. Marter, wofully misjudged the situation, for they took most advanced ground against separate schools and vigorously denounced what they represented as Catholic domination in provincial politics. Be the causes what they may, the London victory must be an extremely satisfactory one to the government. At the close of the general election it held 47 seats, or exactly half the assembly, the other 47 being held by the regular opposition, the Patrons and P. P. A. members. The election of a speaker from its own ranks would have left it in a minority of one in case of a combined vote of the other parties. Now it has 48 supporters, while the other groups number but 46, and it is therefore practically sure of a majority over all—though a small one. If the government loses no seats at future bye-elections it is likely to keep in power for another four years at least, and it is quite as likely to make gains as losses. To sum up the situation in homely phrase, Sir Oliver has once more skated over the ice to comparative safety. His position was endangered not by his avowed opponents, but by the partakers in independent movements, which narrowly missed securing the balance of power in the assembly. It is a question yet whether the government and Patrons will not come to an agreement on the one or two points which separate them, with the result of a refusal on the part of the latter to give support to the opposition.

PERFERVIDUM TUPPERI.

The statement is made that the Conservatives captured Sir John Rigby's seat in Forfarshire chiefly because of the feeling engendered among the Scottish farmers by the Liberal government scheduling Canadian cattle. In former days Forfar and Aberdeen farmers found it profitable to purchase Canadian "store" animals and fatten them for market, and they are angered by the persistent refusal of the board of agriculture to remove the embargo. The statement that the Liberal reverse in Forfarshire is due to this trouble may very well be true. But it further appears that Sir Charles Tupper took a hand in this election and used the cattle embargo as an argument against the government—at least he is so accused by the Pall Mall Gazette, a journal opposed to the government. If the charge is well founded our "high commissioner" has been guilty of gross indecency; for it is a most strict rule that no person bearing ambassadorial functions shall take part in the local politics of the country wherein he resides, and Sir Charles is in one sense a diplomatic representative. It would not be surprising if this incident should lead the home government to hint to Ottawa that he might better be recalled. Such a hint would be likely to do Canada a considerable service. If Sir Charles wants to take part in British political affairs he should give up his office and seek an entrance to parliament. With the amount of admiration he has gained for himself by his connection with the Three Rivers meat scheme, the Chignecto marine railway and other like affairs he should have no difficulty in accomplishing this end.

It seems that the high commissioner has been the cause of another slight misunderstanding—though perhaps innocently in this case. Some remarks of his were interpreted as an announcement that the services of the Royal Canadian infantry had been offered by the Canadian government to the mother country in the event of war. It is now explained from Ottawa that the offer involved only the sending of the regiment to Halifax as a garrison to relieve the imperial troops there in case of their being needed abroad. Even with this modification, however, the offer appears as an indication that the Ottawa government is getting up an "imperialistic" programme at the coming election. The ministers have adopted Principal Grant's view that the N. P. has won its last victory, and have concluded to make a spread-eagle appeal with the hope of taking the people's attention away from the domestic situation. The Pacific cable, fast Atlantic line and other similar dodges are parts of the programme. Sir John Thompson and his colleagues seem to think the people will be content to "fill their bellies with the east wind."

STREET CLEANING MACHINE.

No City Need Have Dirty Streets After It Is In Operation.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Within the next two months the municipal authorities of the leading cities of the countries will eb afforded an opportunity of witnessing a practical demonstration of a new invention which it is claimed will revolutionize all existing and past methods of street cleaning and which will solve one of the most perplexing problems of the age, and the difficulties of which increase with the growth of cities. The present system of sweeping streets is both expensive and primitive. While machinery is rapidly taking the place of hand labor in all other industries, but little if any changes from hand methods have been made in street cleaning. The machines now in use simply leave the sweepings in riffs to be collected by hand labor into bunches, then to be shoveled into carts or left to be re-scattered by passing vehicles. The new invention, which is automatic in its operation, is a dispute is not merely entered for the purpose of killing time. If the defence is in the nature of an offset, the defendant must send a statement of same self-loading sweeper, which picks up the sweepings automatically while progressing through the streets, and does away entirely with hand labor. The invention will be a boon in the winter time, for with the new automatic device the sweeper can be started with a storm, and if kept in operation not only the tracks but the entire street may be kept clear, as by a carrier or elevator arrangement the snow is loaded into carts or wagons attached to the side of the sweeper. The invention is also adapted to the sweeping of depot platforms and other large enclosed spaces, one man and the machine being able to do the work. The invention would make a remarkable reduction in the cost of cleaning up thoroughfares of large cities. In New York city the street cleaning expenses approximate the enormous total of $2,000,000 annually, while in Chicago last year the average outlay for this purpose was over $48 a mile. By the use of the new automatic machine it is claimed that this cost will be enormously reduced.

MDME. EMMA CALVÉ.

ONE OF THE BRIGHT LIGHTS OF THE OPERATIC STAGE.

The brilliant little French star whose pleasing face appears above is well known to musical people everywhere. Her wonderful success in the opera of 'Carmen' has placed her in the highest rank of artists. Speaking of 'Vin Mariani,' the great nerve and stomach tonic, she says she took it to 'cure a cold,' and it really enabled her to sing Carmen the same evening. 'Vin—Mariani' (Mariani wine) nourishes and strengthens the whole system, is very palatable, never produces constipation; but, on the contrary, aids digestion and assimilation. Send stamp to Lawrence A. Wilson & Co., Montreal, and they will send the portraits of many celebrated people who have testified in favor of this wonderful coca tonic.

COLLECTING SMALL ACCOUNTS.

A Cheap and Convenient Procedure in the Northwest.

The Territories have, since the recent session of their legislative assembly, had a new law for the collection of small debts which was much needed, and which, while imitating the legislation of other provinces, may itself be profitably imitated. It is for the collection of debts and breach of contracts under $100.

In entering an action the creditor simply leaves with the clerk of the court, or mails to him, a statement of claim in the form of an account, or if it be a note or order a copy of the same so that it may be easily understood what the action is brought for. The clerk then issues a summons to the defendant and attaches a copy of the statement. If the defendant intends to dispute the matter he must notify the clerk of such intention within 20 days from the service of the summons, stating the ground of his defence.

In case of debt the defendant must file with his dispute note an affidavit that he has a good defence and that the in duplicate, verified, by similar affidavit, to the clerk, who sends one copy to the plaintiff. If no dispute is filed with in the time limited the plaintiff may, in claiming for debt, have judgment entered for the debt, while if the action is for an unliquidated amount on a breach of contract the amount is to be ascertained in such manner as the judge may direct.

If the action is defended the plaintiff may enter it for trial. If he does not do so within three months the defendant may either take that step or apply to the judge on 20 days' notice to the plaintiff for the dismissal of the action.

The costs under this system have been considerably reduced; no advocate's fees is to be allowed unless the action is contested, and then only to the extent of 10 per cent. of the claim, no fees being less than $1.

The Ontario Act of last session on this subject applies only to debts of less than $10. Debts of over $10 still come under the old procedure and are very costly in their collection. The Manitoba Act on the other hand applies to all debts of less than $100. The difference would seem to be that the laws of the Northwest Territories are made for the people while the Ontario laws are made for the sheriffs and bailiffs, the staunchest supporters of the government.—Dry Goods Review.

BEES AS WOODWORKERS.

How the Carpenter Bees Excavate for Their Homes.

Woodworkers of the human stripe are not all aware that they have predecessors and superiors among woodworkers of the insect stripe. There are "carpenter bees," says a writer in the Lumber World, that do some neat jobs of carpentry regularly. Numbers of the members of this insect class are enormous and very beautiful. "Xylocopa violacia," whose generic name signifies a wood cutter, larger than the largest bumblebee, exhibits choice contrasts of color in its brilliant, velvety black body and its rings of a rich violet. England has no specimen of these creatures. Their tasks are as interesting as themselves. They show partiality for old posts and palings, or the woodwork of houses, which is soft, because commencing to decay; but apparently they do not form fresh tunnels, save when old ones are not to be had. The bee usually begins boring obliquely across the grain of the wood, about two days being taken to make the workman's own length; but this may not be so easily done as the remainder, which runs parallel with the sides of the wood for from 12 to 18 inches. Sometimes an excavation or two will suffice, which generally takes opposite directions from the opening; sometimes the bee cuts extra galleries, one above the other, using the same opening. Sharp jaws, moved by powerful muscles, are its only tools, and, as it descends into the heart of the solid wood, the tunnel is swept clean and regular with stiff brushes of hairs on the legs, and all raspings made in eating the burrow out are cast forth from the entrance. The sawdust expelled becomes of subsequent use. One by one the successive partitions of the chippings, caused to adhere with some sticky fluid, probably saliva, are constructed, dividing the entire tunnel into cells somewhat less than an inch long. Each is supplied with an egg and a compound of pollen and honey; the door is closed; but before deserting her bevy finally, the bee forms a lateral opening from the outside to the bottom of the cells and chokes it with sawdust paste; and through this the young escape when the time for their emergence arrives.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE

Continuation of the Debate on Mr. Rithet's Fisheries Resolution.

Question Has Been Referred to the Courts by the Two Governments.

FIFTH DAY.

Tuesday Nov. 20.

The speaker took the chair at 2.10.

Mr. Semlin rose to a question of privilege. His remarks regarding the fisheries were misunderstood by the reporter. He did not mean to say that the department of marine were wrong. What he meant to say was that they might have been wrong.

Mr. Smith moved that in the opinion of this house it is not advisable to open the restaurant to supply meals to the members of the legislative assembly during the present session. He did not wish to throw blame on any one or complain of the way in which meals had been served, but he did not think it would be necessary during what would be a short session. Besides, the members would not be called upon to spend so much time at the house this session as usual. The cost was a great deal.

Hon. Mr. Davie seconded the resolution, not so much to see it carried out in its entirety as to give him an opportunity to explain. It was the intention to curtail the expenses in the restaurant very much; in fact it would not be a restaurant, but just a place where members could obtain a cup of coffee and a sandwich.

Mr. Semlin endorsed what the premier said, and hoped that no liquor would be supplied.

Hon. Mr. Davie said no liquors would be supplied.

The motion was withdrawn on the assurance of the premier that the restaurant would not be opened on an elaborate scale.

Hon. Mr. Davie rose to a question of privilege to correct something that had been said by the opposition during the debate on the address in reply. This was an example of why the opposition should all speak before the government, so that the latter could have the last say. What he wished to refer to particularly was the remarks of Mr. Kitchen that the Vancouver World had received $800 for printing the Vancouver and New Westminster voters' lists. He read a letter from J. C. McLagan stating that the World had been paid no such sum.

Mr. Kitchen read from page 32 of the public accounts, "World, printing voters' lists Vancouver and New Westminster, $855." That was his authority for the statement. Probably the accounts were cooked, which several matters would lead one to believe.

On motion of Hon. Mr. Turner it was decided that the speech of the lieut.-governor at the opening of the present session be taken into consideration on Friday.

Mr. Irving asked the attorney-general, by what authority does County Judge Bole try criminal cases? Has he the powers of a supreme court judge, and more particularly when a supreme court judge is available?

The attorney-general replied: By virtue of sections 37 and 36 of the supreme court act, under commissions from the lieut. governor and a supreme court judge for Westminster district, by virtue of a commission from the governor-general.

Mr. Sword asked the minister of finance, when was the guarantee on the bonds of the Nakusp & Slocan railway given, and to what amount?

Hon. Mr. Turner—The bonds are dated July, 1893, and for $17,500 a mile.

The house went into committee on Mr. Rithet's motion regarding the fisheries.

Mr. Kitchen asked what the nature of the agreement between Ontario and the Dominion was.

Mr. Rithet said there was no official record of the agreement, but he knew from the papers that there was such a commission. As an evidence of why the fisheries should be managed by a local board he mentioned the fact of the Dominion government's refusal to extend the season for fishing as requested by the canners. Then if the hatchery salmon were not allowed to go for some days late they might be late in returning to the river. Another instance was the refusal of the government to allow the canners to use seine nets, which was the only means by which salmon could be caught at certain places. The minister had told him that the fish could be caught at night. This could not be done, as the water is so full of phosphorus that when a net is lowered at night it is like a ball of fire and frightens the fish and drives them away. During the twenty years that the Dominion government had managed the fisheries they had not done what the canners consider was proper. They had not done what they should to foster and protect the industry. This a local board knowing the business could do.

Mr. Irving supported the resolution, as he thought the arrangement would be an advantage to one of the most important industries of the province. The leader of the opposition had said that blank forms had been sent to the members of the legislature by the Dominion government, asking the members to give what information they could respecting the industry. Why were not these blanks sent to the men who knew something about the business? The leader of the opposition admitted that he was a farmer and did not know much about the fisheries. Mr. Wilmot's investigation was a very unsatisfactory one. Some very ignorant reports had been sent to the department. One stated that a bank had been formed across the mouth of the river by offal. It was a fact that fish had been imported from the sound, while our own rivers are teeming with them.

Mr. Kitchen thought it was better to leave the matter to the Dominion government, who were independent and only wished to preserve the fish. He did not uphold the government for refusing to extend the fishing season when requested, but considered that the canners would obtain what they desired if the proper course were pursued. The British Columbia and Ontario cases were very different.

Mr. Graham was of opinion that the Dominion government was much better able to take charge of the fisheries than the provincial government, as they would take a much broader view of the question. They had no further interest than to preserve the fish. No arguments had been advanced that would induce him to support the resolution.

Mr. Hunter considered the arguments used against the resolution were in favor of it. He always stood up for provincial rights, and every move to lessen the tyranny exercised over the province by the Dominion was a good one. It might be the commencement of a fight for provincial rights. Look what Sir Oliver Mowat had done for Ontario in obtaining provincial rights from the Dominion? The members might as well argue that the Dominion government should regulate provincial taxation, because they were three thousand miles from the province, and therefore took an unprejudiced view of it. They might take charge of everything in the province if the argument was followed out. He believed himself that the Dominion government had nothing whatever to do with the rivers of the province. The B. N. A. act, referring to the fisheries and the Dominion government's control of them, did not say anything as to whether the control included navigable or unnavigable rivers. He quoted a number of decisions in support of his contention that the Dominion government had no control over the rivers. He was not looking for a fight, but was always prepared to fight against the encroachment of the Dominion or any other government.

Mr. Booth wanted to know what the representatives at Ottawa had to do if they did not look after questions of this kind. He contended that there were differences between the cases of Ontario and British Columbia, and did not think the resolution should pass.

Mr. Prentice opposed the resolution simply on account of its vague character.

Mr. McGregor said everybody seemed to be thoroughly in the dark regarding the fisheries, and the best way to throw light on the question was to appoint a commission.

Mr. Rogers held the same opinion as the last speaker. He contended that the salmon which ascended the river did not return to the ocean; in fact, at the head waters of the streams where he lived the banks were at some seasons of the year covered with dead salmon.

Mr. Bryden supported the resolution. If the Dominion government controlled the fisheries on the rivers they should take charge of the rivers and pay for the damage done by the floods. The resolution would, however, bring the two governments into communication.

Hon. Col. Baker contended that the proposition for a joint control was a very reasonable one. He would like to know how any business could be carried on by a management three thousand miles away.

Mr. Sword thought it would be better to ask for a joint commission to investigate the whole question. All would admit that it would be advisable to have a local board of management, but it was going too far to say that the board should be appointed by the provincial government.

Mr. Williams asked what were the contentions between the Dominion and the British Columbia governments.

Hon. Mr. Davie said that various questions had been submitted to the supreme court by the two governments. The first claim of the province was that the rivers were the property of the province. While these questions were pending it was advisable to have a board to assume the management of the fisheries. If the hon. members desired it he would have the contentions of the two governments placed before them.

Mr. Forster was in favor of a commission of enquiry, but could not support the resolution as it was. He moved in amendment "that this government be requested to take immediate steps to arrange with the Dominion government for a joint commission to enquire into the management and regulation of the fisheries and report to the house."

Hon. Mr. Higgins having been referred to as one of the fisheries commissioners wished to take advantage of the privilege accorded to the Speaker and address a few words to the committee. He was in favor of the resolution, and if he had a vote would cast it in favor of it. On account of the actions taken by the other commissioners, he had been forced to make a minority report. The house was sitting at the same time as the commission, and he could not be in two places at the same time. The other commissioners promised to give him the stenographer's report of the evidence taken during his absence, but he did not receive that evidence until five months after the commission had adjourned. He was always of opinion that the canners were not properly cared for. It was a fact that the trout were enemies of the young salmon, as it was well known that trout would not "bite" when salmon were spawning. Mr. Wilmot held that the salmon here were the same as those in the east. He contended that this was not so. No doubt Mr. Wilmot was an authority on salmon, and knew a lot in his way, but he did not understand the fish of this province. Perhaps he should not say it about a brother commissioner, but Mr. Wilmot was very much prejudiced. He was surprised at farmers upholding regulations which prevented them from taking fish from the rivers that ran through their farms without being called poachers. The regulations were obnoxious and tyrannical. The government had acted wisely in referring the question to the supreme court. (Applause.)

Mr. Kennedy contended that British Columbia should not expect different regulations from those in force in the other provinces.

Hon. Mr. Davie did not want it thought that he supported the resolution because he thought the regulations were obnoxious or tyrannical. Any regulations, whether formulated by the Dominion or provincial governments, would be considered by some as tyrannical. There should be better police protection against foreign marauders. He did not wish to give the Dominion government a slap in the face, as he would not say that the regulations were unfair.

Mr. Booth said that the amendment introduced by Mr. Forster was worse than the resolution. It was absurd to ask the Dominion government to appoint commissioners to report to this house.

Mr. Forster struck out the word "joint" in his amendment, so that the commission would be a provincial one.

Mr. Semlin said it could not be more explicitly provided that the fisheries should be under the control of the Dominion government. They were just as much under their control as was the tariff. It was singular that no mention had been made in the speech regarding the negotiations between the two governments.

Hon. Mr. Pooley suggested that the resolution be withdrawn and another introduced that will meet with the approval of the whole house.

Messrs. Forster and Sword were of the same opinion as the president of the council.

Mr. Irving did not think that the resolution should be withdrawn. It was a very important one and should be passed. Someone had said that captains had broken the law by dumping ballast into the river. This was not so, they had simply discharged it on the banks. He knew of a case where one of the government inspectors told a captain that it would be cheaper for him to discharge the ballast on the banks and be fined than it would be for him to take it out of the river.

The committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again, to give members time to obtain information on the question.

Hon. Mr. Davie said he had looked up the question referred to in Mr. McLagan's letter about the printing of the New Westminster voters' lists. There was a typographical error in the public accounts, as the Columbian had printed the New Westminster lists.

Mr. Kitchen—What about the Colonist printing the Vancouver lists?

Hon. Mr. Davie—That must be a mistake.

The East Lillooet election bill was read a second time.

The house adjourned at 4:50.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Cottolene

and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lately Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.

Annual School Board Election in the City of London an Interesting One.

Successes and Reverses of European Powers Away From Home.

London, Nov. 20.—The manner in which the Swazi deputation has been treated is much commented upon. The envoys, six in number, including two princes and two indunas, arrived here recently to ask the British government to annex their country. The government says it cannot annex Swaziland on account of the treaties with the Transvaal. The Swazis were brought from South Africa in the steerage and were lodged in a poor dwelling in the west of London, but they have been received in audience by the Queen at Windsor and were much impressed with the military pomp they witnessed. They saw the Marquis of Ripon colonial secretary, yesterday, who, it is asserted, ordered them to return to Africa at once, threatening them with the anger of the "great queen" if they did not do so.

Mr. Labouchere's Truth says in a paragraph concerning the Queen's health: "Her Majesty has aged very much during the autumn and can walk only a few steps owing to recurring rheumatism in the knees." Truth also confirms the report of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha's illness. He is said to be suffering from neuralgia, eczema and internal troubles.

The government is in receipt of information that the Germans in East Africa on October 30 stormed and took possession of the town of Kuirenga, the capital of Wahehe territory. In the fight hundreds of natives were killed. The Germans lost one officer and eight soldiers. The victors found in the town a large quantity of ivory, many rifles, large herds of cattle and a great quantity of ammunition, etc. They also liberated 1500 male and female slaves.

In the Cork chamber of commerce meeting to-day a report of an interview with Postmaster-General Morley, disclosed the fact that the Cunard company had decided to cease calling at Queenstown because the stop delayed mails.

A dispatch from Grand Bassam, Upper Guinea, states that the French have captured the stronghold of the Akapless natives without loss. Some of the Akapless warriors apparently killed fifteen negroes at Kriniabe. A French force attacked the natives and killed many of them. The French lost one killed and many wounded. A French expedition was then sent against the natives, and the above dispatch shows that their mission has been successful.

M. Francis Magnard, editor-in-chief of the Figaro, is dead. M. Magnard was born at Brussels in 1836, and went to Paris at an early age. He became a contributor to the Gaulois and the Kauschic, and in 1863 entered the employ of the Figaro, of which paper he became editor-in-chief in 1876. Under his direction the paper soon obtained a high degree of prosperity, and became noted for its many subscriptions for charitable purposes.

Princess Claudine of Teck died suddenly to-day at Gratz, Austria. The Duke of Teck has gone to Gratz to attend the funeral. Princess Claudine of Teck was born February 11, 1836. She was a sister of the Duke of Teck, and consequently an aunt of the Duchess of York.

So far neither T. P. O'Connor, the noted Irish member of parliament and journalist, or Mr. Charles Diamond, who sits in the house of commons for North Monaghan, have made any reply to the manifesto signed by 150 London priests and read from their pulpits warning their flocks that the two gentlemen named are not safe guides to follow in certain public questions and especially in the matter of education, and their friends say that, for the present at least, they will treat the manifesto with dignified silence. Coming close upon Cardinal Vaughan's attack upon the Free Masons and Archbishop Walsh's endorsement of the crusade against the Foresters, the action of the priests in question has intensified the feeling against the interference of prelates and members of the clergy in other than strictly church affairs. A member of the home rule party in the house of commons, and who is himself a devout communicant of the church in question, said to-day: "The Roman Catholic clergy either in England or in Ireland may speedily discover that the people of this country will repudiate all attempts at clerical dictation. These repeated interferences with matters entirely outside the pale of the church are becoming intolerable. We allow everyone the right to think for himself, and we expect the same rights ourselves."

The annual election for members of the London school board and which is regarded in the metropolis as second in importance and interest only to a general election of members of parliament, takes place on Thursday. So much interest is manifested in the election that most of the large manufactories and other establishments employing considerable labor shut down from ten to two o'clock in order that their employees might have an opportunity to vote, while in the financial and business centres of the city the marts of money and commerce are almost deserted up to noon. The retiring board, over which Rev. Mr. Joseph R. Diggle has presided for three years, has been controlled by the clerical element and it is against the predominance of ministers that the fight is mainly directed. The city is placarded with a manifesto issued by John Burns, the noted labor member of parliament, in which he declares that the Diggle majority has been responsible for making the education of London children a farce and a sham, and that municipal action had combined with parliamentary reaction, and had joined hands with that religious dogmatism that had formed a majority on the board for years. "As a working man and a public man who never had the advantage of a school board education," said Mr. Burns, "I appeal to you to rescue the three-quarters of a million of London workingmen's children from the snares of the religious click on the board." Another manifesto, of which a million copies have been distributed during the past few days, and issued by the Progressive School Board Election Council, says: "The tremendous issue involved is whether or not it is a good thing for the state that the vast majority of our population should be educated under priestly influences—we care not what may be the denomination. The people are called upon to say whether they will hand over the elementary education of the country to the custody of the professors of the religion established by act of parliament, that is, the Church of England or Episcopal Church." Already this church controls a vast number of schools which it calls voluntary, but it is now entreating and and conspiring to place under its yoke the elementary public schools, to turn them into nurseries of Toryism and of religion by act of parliament. As democrats we contend that public schools maintained by the money of the taxpayers should be devoted exclusively to the purpose originally intended, that is, the imparting of elementary instruction in strictly secular subjects. The Established Church, already in receipt of seven million pounds annually from public sources for the maintenance and propagation of a state religion, is now, impudently and fraudulently endeavoring to capture and control the expenditure of additional millions appropriated for school board education in order to bring up our children Tories and state church men and women. We have no objection, whatever, to religion being taught in the public schools as a matter of history, but we object to sectarian religion being taught in the public schools as a matter of history, but we object to sectarian religion being crammed down the throats of our children by a powerful, determined and unscrupulous foe." The labor party has candidates in every district. Among the members of the nobility who are on the list of candidates are the Duke of Newcastle, Lord Morpeth and Sir Cameron Gull.

EXPRESSES HIS THANKS.

Lord Aberdeen Writes a Complimentary Letter to Lieut.-Gov. Dewdney.

His Hon. Lieut.-Governor Dewdney has received the following highly complimentary letter from Lord Aberdeen:

Car Victoria,
Field, Nov. 17th, 1894.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia:

My Dear Lieutenant-Governor.—Before leaving the borders of British Columbia I cannot help writing to send a few lines expressive of the appreciation with which Lady Aberdeen and I will always remember the pleasant and interesting experiences of our stay in this province.

Regarding our visit to Victoria, I need scarcely say that I could not fail to be impressed by the many tokens of loyalty and public spirit, combined with manifestations of kindly good will of a more personal sort, which were so evident not only on our arrival, but throughout our visit.

As to the hospitality which we enjoyed at Government House, I cannot too heartily thank your honor and Mrs. Dewdney for all the thoughtful consideration and care of which we and our party were the recipients; and in view of the manifest desire of the people, not only of Victoria, but of the province as a whole, that Her Majesty's representative should be well entertained, I think it must have been a cause of general satisfaction to observe how thoroughly and effectively the hospitality of Government House attained that purpose.

Our recollections of this visit to Victoria include the further satisfactory feature that before leaving I had the pleasure of receiving from Sir A. Caron a telegram stating that he felt able to comply with the request or suggestion which I had taken the opportunity of making, viz., that in connection with the occasion of our visit and the hearty reception accorded to us, the post office employees who had been suspended might (pending the subsequent settlement of the main questions under consideration) be without delay reinstated, and I was glad to observe that this was duly carried out.

We are now, as I have said, leaving not without reluctance this magnificent province; but I think we may look forward to another visit at no very distant period. I remain,

Very faithfully yours,
ABERDEEN.

"Only the Scars Remain,"

Says HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., who certifies as follows:

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc., none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

Mother Urged Me

Bark Senta's Cargo of Salmon—The Mutineers on the Rand.

New Westminster, Nov. 21.—The German bark Senta, Captain Tiemann, 1026 tons, cleared at the customs yesterday for Liverpool, and will sail to-day. She carries 45,135 cases of canned salmon, valued at $225,960

The charges of piracy against twenty-one west coast Indians composing the crew of the schooner Rand is still proceeding at the assize court, and will probably last the whole week. From the evidence adduced it appears the Indians did not want to extend their voyage into Behring sea, being afraid of the Russians, and wanted to get back home by the middle of July to take part in the Fraser river salmon fishing, at which they could make more money.

Delegates are here from Dakota representing over one hundred Norwegians who are desirous to emigrate from Minnesota and Dakota to come to the neighborhood of the Fraser river, their intention being to fish and farm. They will buy or pre-empt small lots of land. All of them will bring money enough for a comfortable start. The Dominion land agent is looking after the delegates, and putting them in the way of getting all the information desired.

The piracy case is still dragging its weary way in the assize court.

Hunt and Costello's cannery has been sold to the English syndicate who bought Carthew's cannery. The purchase price is said to be $30,000. Costello remains as manager.

A heavy wind and rain storm last night was followed by some frost. Beautiful weather to-day.

POLICEMEN FIGHT.

The Nanaimo Chief and a Constable Have a "Set-To."

Nanaimo, Nov. 21.—A great sensation was caused in the city yesterday by the report of a mill between Chief McKinnon and Constable Brown. The affair took place during the night, and the only reliable witness of it was Night Watchman Hoskins. The latter claims that McKinnon was the aggressor, but in his lengthy evidence before Magistrate Planta Mayor Quennell and M. Bate, J. P. Chief McKinnon denies this statement. The latter appeared in court with two very bad black eyes, which plainly showed he had been roughly handled. Brown claims he was struck twice by McKinnon before he attempted to strike back, and that he had to give him further punishment to prevent him from pulling a gun on him. In the evidence for the defence it is claimed that McKinnon was drunk. After hearing both sides of the case the bench decided to commit Constable Brown to the assizes.

The following team will represent the Nanaimo Hornets in the Rugby match at Victoria to-morrow: J. Riley, full back; J. L. Quine, S. Webster, L. Tarrant and J. Dixon, three-quarters; H. Hilton and J. Greens, half backs; G. Lister (captain), C. H. Barker, J. Neens, W. Edmunds, C. Cheetwood, O. Randle, M. Duffy, J. H. Hawthornthwaite, forwards; R. Swanson, reserve; R. Gillard, touch judge.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland lectured on the temperance cause in the city hall last evening and a large number attended.

Mayor Quennell has received a very appropriate letter from the governor-general, in which he lauds the kindness extended to him by the citizens in general and Mr. S. M. Robins, and regretted he had not had time to visit the homesteads created in the "Five Acre" blocks by the latter gentleman.

THE ASSIZES.

The Trade Dollar Case Before the Court this Afternoon.

The jury yesterday afternoon found Wall and Smith guilty of obtaining money by false pretences, but qualified their verdict with a strong recommendation to mercy.

Buchanan, Burns, Hunt, Harkins and Stanton were then tried for stealing meat from Monk's butcher shop. They were all convicted except the last named, who is still held, as there is another charge against him.

Before adjourning for the night Mr. Irving asked that the Cook case stand over until the next assize, as a couple of the principal witnesses were out of the country.

Court opened this morning at 10.30, when the famous Trade Dollar saloon case was taken up. In it Joseph Ahearn, the proprietor of the saloon, is charged with the theft of $330 on the 22nd of October last from William Hussey. Mr. P. AE. Irving is acting for the prosecution and Mr. Belyea, instructed by Mr. G. A. Morphy, for the prisoner. The defence exercized the privilege of challenging jurors pretty freely, and it was some time before the following jurors were sworn in: J. H. Warren, foreman; William Broderick, J. F. Silver, W. C. Bryant, jr., J. Whitfield, John Bamsley, George Lyal, William Ludley, William Murray, J. H. Post, F. Galbraith and R. Selig. After stating the case for the crown, Mr. Irving called Josie Edwards, a dark eyed damsel. She said she met Hussey at Joe Levy's restaurant the night before the 23rd and they went up to Johnson street together, Hussey's friend, Hunnan, accompanying them. Hunnan went to bed, but before doing so handed his money, consisting of two $100 bills and several others of a smaller denomination, over to Hussey. Ahearn was in the house at the time. In the morning she and Hussey went down to the Trade Dollar and had several drinks. She saw Hussey pay two $5 bills, one ten and one twenty, but did not know whether he got change or not. She also saw him pay over the bar a $100 bill and get a lot of change back. She and Hussey then drove to Joe Levy's for breakfast and then down to the Telegraph hotel, where they had more drinks. They then drove up to the Trade Dollar, and found the bar tender, George Miller, there, and after some pressing she said Ahearn was there too. The next day she saw Ahearn, when he told her that Hussey had lost some money, and he advised her to go to Seattle, and offered her money to go until the trouble was over.

To Mr. Belyea she denied that she had been in jail in San Francisco on account of some trouble similar to this, but acknowledged she had been in a reformatory for 50 days.

William Hussey was then examined. He is a sealer. His evidence in chief may have had something to do with the case, but unfortunately he either could not or would not speak out, and the jury must still be wondering what he said. To Mr. Belyea he acknowledged that he got the money from Hunnan to take it to the King's Head and to put it away for him.

Mr. Belyea—After breakfast why did you not take the money to the King's Head?

Witness—I can't tell.

"I can," said Mr. Belyea. "You had Josie with you."

He wakened up some time in the afternoon in the wine room at the Trade Dollar, and then his money was gone. Josie was there when he woke. He didn't remember spending more than $2 that day.

To the foreman he said he had been drunk before and always remembered what he had done while drunk. As it was shortly after one o'clock, the court adjourned until 2.30.

At 2 the grand jury were called, when his lordship told them the depositions in the two other cases were to be put before them. They were Regina v. McDonnell and Regina v. Jackson, both gaming cases.
